The Memoir Class User Guide — Page 110

The macro \makerunningwidth sets the widths of the \(style \) pagestyle headers and footers. The header width is set to (headwidth). If the optional (footwidth) is present, then the footer width is set to that, otherwise to (headwidth). The header width is stored as the length \styleheadrunwidth and the footer width as \stylefootrunwidth. The \makepagestyle initialises the widths to be the textwidth, so the macro need only be used if some other width is desired. The length \headwidth is provided as a (scratch) length that may be used for headers or footers, or any other purpose.
